

Sliding-block "chinese ring"-style puzzle

Bob Hearn

Actually this puzzle is more like the generalized looney loop puzzle, in that solution follows a ternary Gray code - the chinese rings use a binary Gray code.
State is stored in the position of the two "latch" blocks A and B. There are four possible states, but only three are useful.

